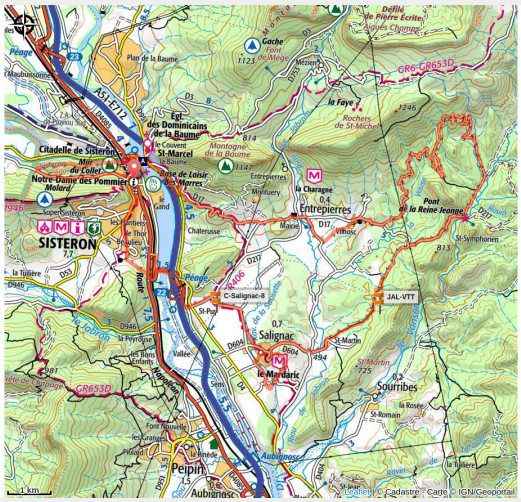
Gravel between Durance and towns around Sisteron

Sisteron - Sisteron

Piste à proximité du Vançon (CCSB)



Starting in Sisteron, this 44-km gravel ride takes you from village to village. Beginning on the Route Napoléon, the route passes through the town of Entrepierres and then Vilhosc. On the trails, the route winds through the national forest before descending to the banks of the Vançon River toward the Pont de la Reine Jeanne.
Take the Pied du Bois trail to Salignac, where some lovely singletrack awaits you, both uphill and downhill.
The return to Sisteron goes through the Thor plateau.

D'abord sur la Route Napoléon, l'itinéraire traverse la commune d'Entrepierres puis Vilhosc. Sur piste, le parcours passe par la forêt domaniale puis redescend sur les rives du Vançon en direction du Pont de la Reine Jeanne.
Par la piste du Pied du Bois, rejoindre Salignac où de jolis singles vous attendent, en descente comme en montée.
Le retour à Sisteron s'effectue par le plateau du Thor.

The Durance River (A)

More than a mere river, the Durance is a force of nature. From its source in Mongenèvre at an altitude of 2300 metres it rolls its way over 302 kilometres until it finally flows into the Rhône. Over time, there has been greater control by man over the river, particularly with the construction of the Serre-Ponçon dam, and it is an essential artery for the Hautes-Alpes.
